market come to a standstill and went up cents yesterday. This was pleasant them had come to expect a decline every lay. The market could not be said to be very active because the buyers showed an inclination to hide out. Each me acted as if he wanted the others to buy the hogs. Lold was the most liberal buyer, but his order was not large enough to cause likily Wallace to get excited. Armour's buyer took one car load early and then had business down town, Cudahy's buyer first a few shots and fell back. The recepts were not large, but in spite of that fact several car loads of hogs were unsold when the market closed. Taking it up one side and down the other and it was a pretty rotten markets. Another two weeks of such markets. Another two weeks of such markets this and last week and their buyers to the cointry and buy one hog at a time and drive him in with a string tied to his bind leg.

a special influence in weakening Amalgamated Copper and the Mexican railroad stocks. The wintry weather prevailing in the west and northwest caused some apprehension of crop damage that might be construed as a depressing factor. The weekly review of the iron trade was not resarded as convincing on the prospect of that trade and especially the symewhat eminous conclusion that thus.

was not regarded as convincing on the prespect of that trade and especially the somewhat ominous conclusion that 'business is too good to light, but that does not mean that concessions are to go on endlessly, and there will have to be a tremendous wage readjustment when the markets sure. The notable strength. The notable strength of the foreign exchange market indicated the possibility of further gold suporis and the retention of the Bunk of England rate at 4 per cent was once more a disappointment. A demand upon its resources which expanded the loan account 1.90, 600 is sufficient indication of the ground for retaining the discount rate. The weekly statement of the Bank of France showing an expansion in note circulation of nearly $2.06,000 and a loan increase of over $5.500,000 shows another motive for the retention of the English bank rate, considering the intge amount of French capital at present placed in the London market.
